Project description:

The Project supports access to employment for marginalised youth in Armenia, Belarus and Georgia through partnerships, skills development and the promotion of entrepreneurship. It enhances labour market access for disadvantaged young people by building cooperation among state and non-state actors and the private sector, as well as by building skills among 12,900 marginalised youth and supporting 180 young people to realise their own business ideas.

Expected results:

- Cross-sectoral partnerships and co-operation established to bridge the gap between labour market and marginalised youth.
- Improved awareness, attitudes and confidence towards employability and participation in civic and community affairs of marginalised young women and men.
- Young women and men from remote areas are encouraged and supported to take advantage of the opportunities of entrepreneurship.
